DETAILED ACTION

1. This office action is in response to communication filed on 8/18/2003. Applicant elected without traverse Group I consisting of claims 1-40, 111-113, 126-127, 136-137 and 146.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

2. Claims 1-40, 111-113, 126-127, 136-137 and 146 are provisionally rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-18 and 51-53 of copending Application No.09/668,553. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the instant application further recites transmitting ad-statistical data. Calculating and transmitting statistical data it is old and well known in business in order to calculate and transmit statistical data in order to make educated assumptions and statements on a particular subject. It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time of Applicant's invention to have included transmitting ad-statistical data in order to achieve the above mentioned advantage.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claims 14-15 Claim are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph.

Claims 14 and 15 depend from claim 10 which recites that the client information includes demographic data but claims 14-15 don't further limit the demographic data claimed in claim 10.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-6, 9, 12-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Marsh et al. (5,848,397 hereinafter Marsh).

With respect to claims 1-6, 9, 12-13, 16, 18-20, 26, 32, 35, 111, 112, 113 Marsh teaches software for use on a client device that is configured for communications with at least one remote source of advertisements via a communications network (Abstract).

Art Unit: 3622

An advertisement download function that downloads advertisements from at least one remote source, during one or more advertisements download sessions (see figure 4, item 601); an advertisement store function that stores the download advertisements on a storage medium associated with the client device (col. 14, lines 1-10); an advertisement display function that effects display of at least selected ones of the stored advertisements on a display associated with the client device (Figure 6, 702); an audit function that compiles ad-related statistical data relating to the downloaded advertisements, wherein the ad-related statistical data includes display event-related data regarding advertisements that were displayed during a prescribed audit interval (col. 14, lines 66-, col. 15, lines 1-7); an audit data transmit function that transmits the ad-related statistical data to a prescribed server system (Figure 8 and col. 15, lines 10-20).

Marsh teaches sending the statistical data to the server (Figure 8 and col. 14, lines 66-, col. 15, lines 1-20). Marsh does not specifically teach sending the data only in response to a user's grant permission to do so. Montague teaches delivering vendor-supplied information to a purchase, while the purchaser authorizing transmission of various data to a vendor server or a third party server (col. 9, lines 20-24). It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time of Applicant's invention to have included in the system of Marsh the teaching of Montague of sending the data only in response to a user's grant permission to do so because such a modification would allow the users to have controlled of the data that is transmitted.

With respect to claim 7, Marsh further teaches under a client policy transmitting a statistical sampling of a population of client devices, at prescribed times (col. 3, lines 12-27 and col. 7, lines 7-24).

Claim 8 further recites transmitting to random ones of population of client devices at prescribed times. Official notice is taken that it is old and well known to perform a function at random in order to protect the data been transmitted. It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time of Applicant's invention to have included transmitting the audit at random times in order to obtain the above mentioned advantage.

With respect to claims 10-11, 14-15, 17, 29 Marsh further teaches that the client information includes user demographic data and transmitting the information to the prescribed server system (col. 3, lines 12-27).

With respect to claims 21, 27, 30, 33 and 36, Marsh further teaches that the advertisement distribution server system is managed by a producer of the software (col. 3, lines 12-56).

With respect to claims 22, 28, 31, 34 and 37, Marsh further teaches that the advertisement distribution server system is managed by a distributor of the software (col. 3, lines 12-56).

With respect to claim 23, Marsh further teaches that the communication network is the Internet (Figure 8, 107).

With respect to claim 24, Marsh further teaches that the software is e-mail software (see Figure 8).

Art Unit: 3622

Claims 25, 38-40 further recite that the client information includes the distributor identifier for transmitting the client information to the prescribed server system. Marsh teaches transmitting the client information to a prescribed server system (Figure 8 and col. 15, lines 10-20 and col. 14, lines 66-, col. 15, lines 1-20). Marsh does not specifically teach including the distributor identifier. Official notice is taken that it is old and well known to provide identity information such as a name or number in order to point out individuality between the subjects. It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time of Applicant's invention to have included the distributor identifier in order to obtain the above mentioned advantage.

With respect to claim 126, Marsh further teaches that advertisement display function effects display when the client device is offline (col. 6, lines 63-, col. 7, lines 1).

With respect to claim 127, Marsh further teaches that the advertisement display function effects display while the user is composing/reading e-mail messages (col. 7, lines 1-6).

Claims 136-137 further recite that the audit data is transmitted at activated random times. Marsh teaches transmitting audit data (col. 14, lines 66-, col. 15, lines 1-7). Marsh does not specifically teach transmitting the audit data at random times. Official notice is taken that it is old and well known to perform a function at random in order to protect the data been transmitted. It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time of Applicant's invention to have included transmitting the audit at random times in order to obtain the above mentioned advantage.

Art Unit: 3622

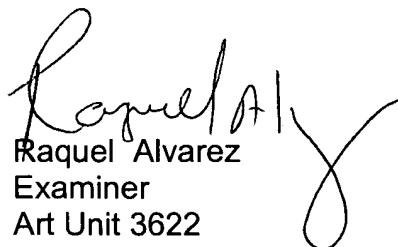

With respect to claim 146, Marsh further teaches clickthrough data regarding each advertisement that was clicked on by the user during the prescribed audit interval (col. 15, lines 14-20).
